

ABOUT THE HOUSE...

In In 1972 Boyd Andrew opened his own home in Helena as a guesthouse, information center, and halfway house for alcoholic men. Since that modest beginning over 40 years ago, Boyd Andrew Community Services (BACS) has grown from a single office treating primarily adult men with alcohol problems to a nationally recognized program that serves adults and their family members providing assessments, intervention, outpatient, and residential care to Lewis & Clark and Jefferson County residents.

The transitional living facility is Boyd's former home and represents the longest continuous treatment facility in the state of Montana. It is licensed by the Department of Health and Human Services as a treatment facility and is inspected and evaluated annually for compliance with building codes and it's treatment contract.

Men's Transitional Living Facility

The Men's Transitional Living Facility (TLF) of Boyd Andrew Community Services is a recovery home for seven adult males and is located in a residential neighborhood in Helena. Residents of the TLF must meet ASAM placement criteria for 3.1 level of care, and be referred by a licensed addictions counselor (LAC), probation and parole officers, or self-referred.

In order to be considered for acceptance into the TLF you must complete and submit an application with a copy of a recent physical, TB test, substance use disorder evaluation and complete an interview. For information pertaining to program referrals, house rules, waiting lists, and for general information about the house, contact the main office at 406-443-2343.

TLF LIFESTYLE

After you have moved into the TLF there are several new adjustments that all residents must adhere to in order to make a smooth transition for everyone.

When you enter the living facility you will receive a Resident Handbook and Treatment Plan. It will be your responsibility to read the handbook and begin to work on the assignments on your treatment plan.

You will be assigned a Licensed Addictions Counselor at Boyd Andrew Community Services. You will be required to attend weekly groups and individual sessions.

Initially all groups are mandatory for all residents to attend.

Along with treatment requirements, residents will also be required to obtain employment within 2 weeks of admission into the house. If a resident is not employed they are expected to be actively searching for work, involved in school or some type of training, or doing some type of volunteer work in the community.

Curfew begins immediately at 9:30pm daily and is dependent on each resident's phase in the program.

Rooms are assigned when you are accepted into the TLF.
